2015 Palliative Care Conference: From Concept to Collaboration

The Hospital Association of Southern California and the Inland Empire Palliative Care Coalition have joined together to present, Supportive Care and Palliative Care: from Concept to Collaboration, an engaging conference focusing on best practices causing acceleration of these cost-effective approaches to care management treatment goals for patients transitioning across the continuum of pre and post-hospitalization.

Presentations will highlight models that make important distinctions in types of patient care, progress in overcoming physician reluctance toward palliative care, and share ongoing concerns over ethical and moral quandaries facing certain patient populations and their families. Hear from local and national speakers as they present supportive care models and personal stories of transformation that result in better care for patients, demonstrating increased collaboration and understanding as future policies and payment reform practices come into play. A prominent faculty will shed light on how best to initiate the conversations surrounding patient and family decisions and treatment options in advanced disease progression.

Learning Objectives:

- Clarify terminology and barriers in communication: distinguish between supportive care, palliative care, and hospice care.
- Demonstrate how integrated, coordinated care is evolving in three health system models.
- Illustrate how to structure messaging to engage physician specialists and sub-specialists to support improved care management, and hospital system standardized practices.
- Understand health plan perspectives as collaborative strategic partners.

Conference Audience: Join health care executives, physicians, nurses and other front-line caregivers as they explore the latest strategies bridging the continuum of care.
